

26th January-2004

As the years roll by, another batch has been added to the list of the Alumni databank. From 1961, a batch of 4 students, to 2004, a batch of 150 students, we have come a long way. However, it is amazing how year after year we kept adding new names and kept losing track of the old ones. The first few years of passing out from school are tough for every batch. They go through pangs of separation and in an effort to keep their past alive they visit, write, even call the school but as life takes over they move on, leaving no tracks behind.

After 43 years, a group of ex-students have got together to revive the magic of yesteryears. They have decided to track down every single student who has ever been a part of the MIS family. This is an effort that might take a lot of time and resources but we want every ex-student of MIS to know that they are still remembered and missed. Please help us spread this message across.

Apart from the databank, the Alumni Association has also been playing a very active role in the lives of the school and its present students. From organizing Talent Fiesta, to participating in inter alumni choir festival, to counseling the present batch of XII on various career options, we have been here. A lot of other activities have been added to our list and work is happening on a lot of them.

This would also be the right time to acknowledge the work done by a handful of our seniors who have provided continuous unconditional support to the MIS family over the years. These are people who have worked selflessly without any kind of recognition, reward or applause. For their sincere efforts we thank Ms. Neena Sethi (1970), Ms. Charu Leekha (1977), Mr. Neeraj Kodesia (1984), Mr. Sanjeev Madan (1983), Mr. Surinder Vashishth (1979) and Mr. Prem Sagar Handa (1975). From laying the cricket pitch at school and bearing the expense of cricket coaching to printing the school magazine free of cost. From writing hundreds of addresses on invitation cards for the annual get-together to pooling in to cover the losses due to a low turn out at the event. They have done it all.

It is now our duty to take these peoples efforts further and make them proud. So come let us join hands and take that one step forward. Let us give back to the school a little of the love, support and life that the school has given to us.
